CHALLENGE

Reviewing hundreds of thousands of documents

Information management and data governance consultant Kroll advises 90% of clients on post-merger or pre-divestiture contract migrations. Both require review of all the target's contracts for key obligations and data points.

Since these contracts can number in the tens – or even hundreds – of thousands, Kroll was looking for a language-based analytics solution that would help them avoid inaccuracies and accelerate their current manual review process.

SOLUTION

Adopting eBrevia saves time and money

The eBrevia team worked closely with Kroll to help them tailor the AI-powered contract analytics platform to meet their needs. As a result, the firm was able to evolve its engagement model with clients to better anticipate – and more efficiently complete – contract review. Kroll has now processed approximately 250,000 contracts in eBrevia.

FAST & ACCURATE

eBrevia considerably reduced review time while increasing accuracy by several percentage points over manual review.

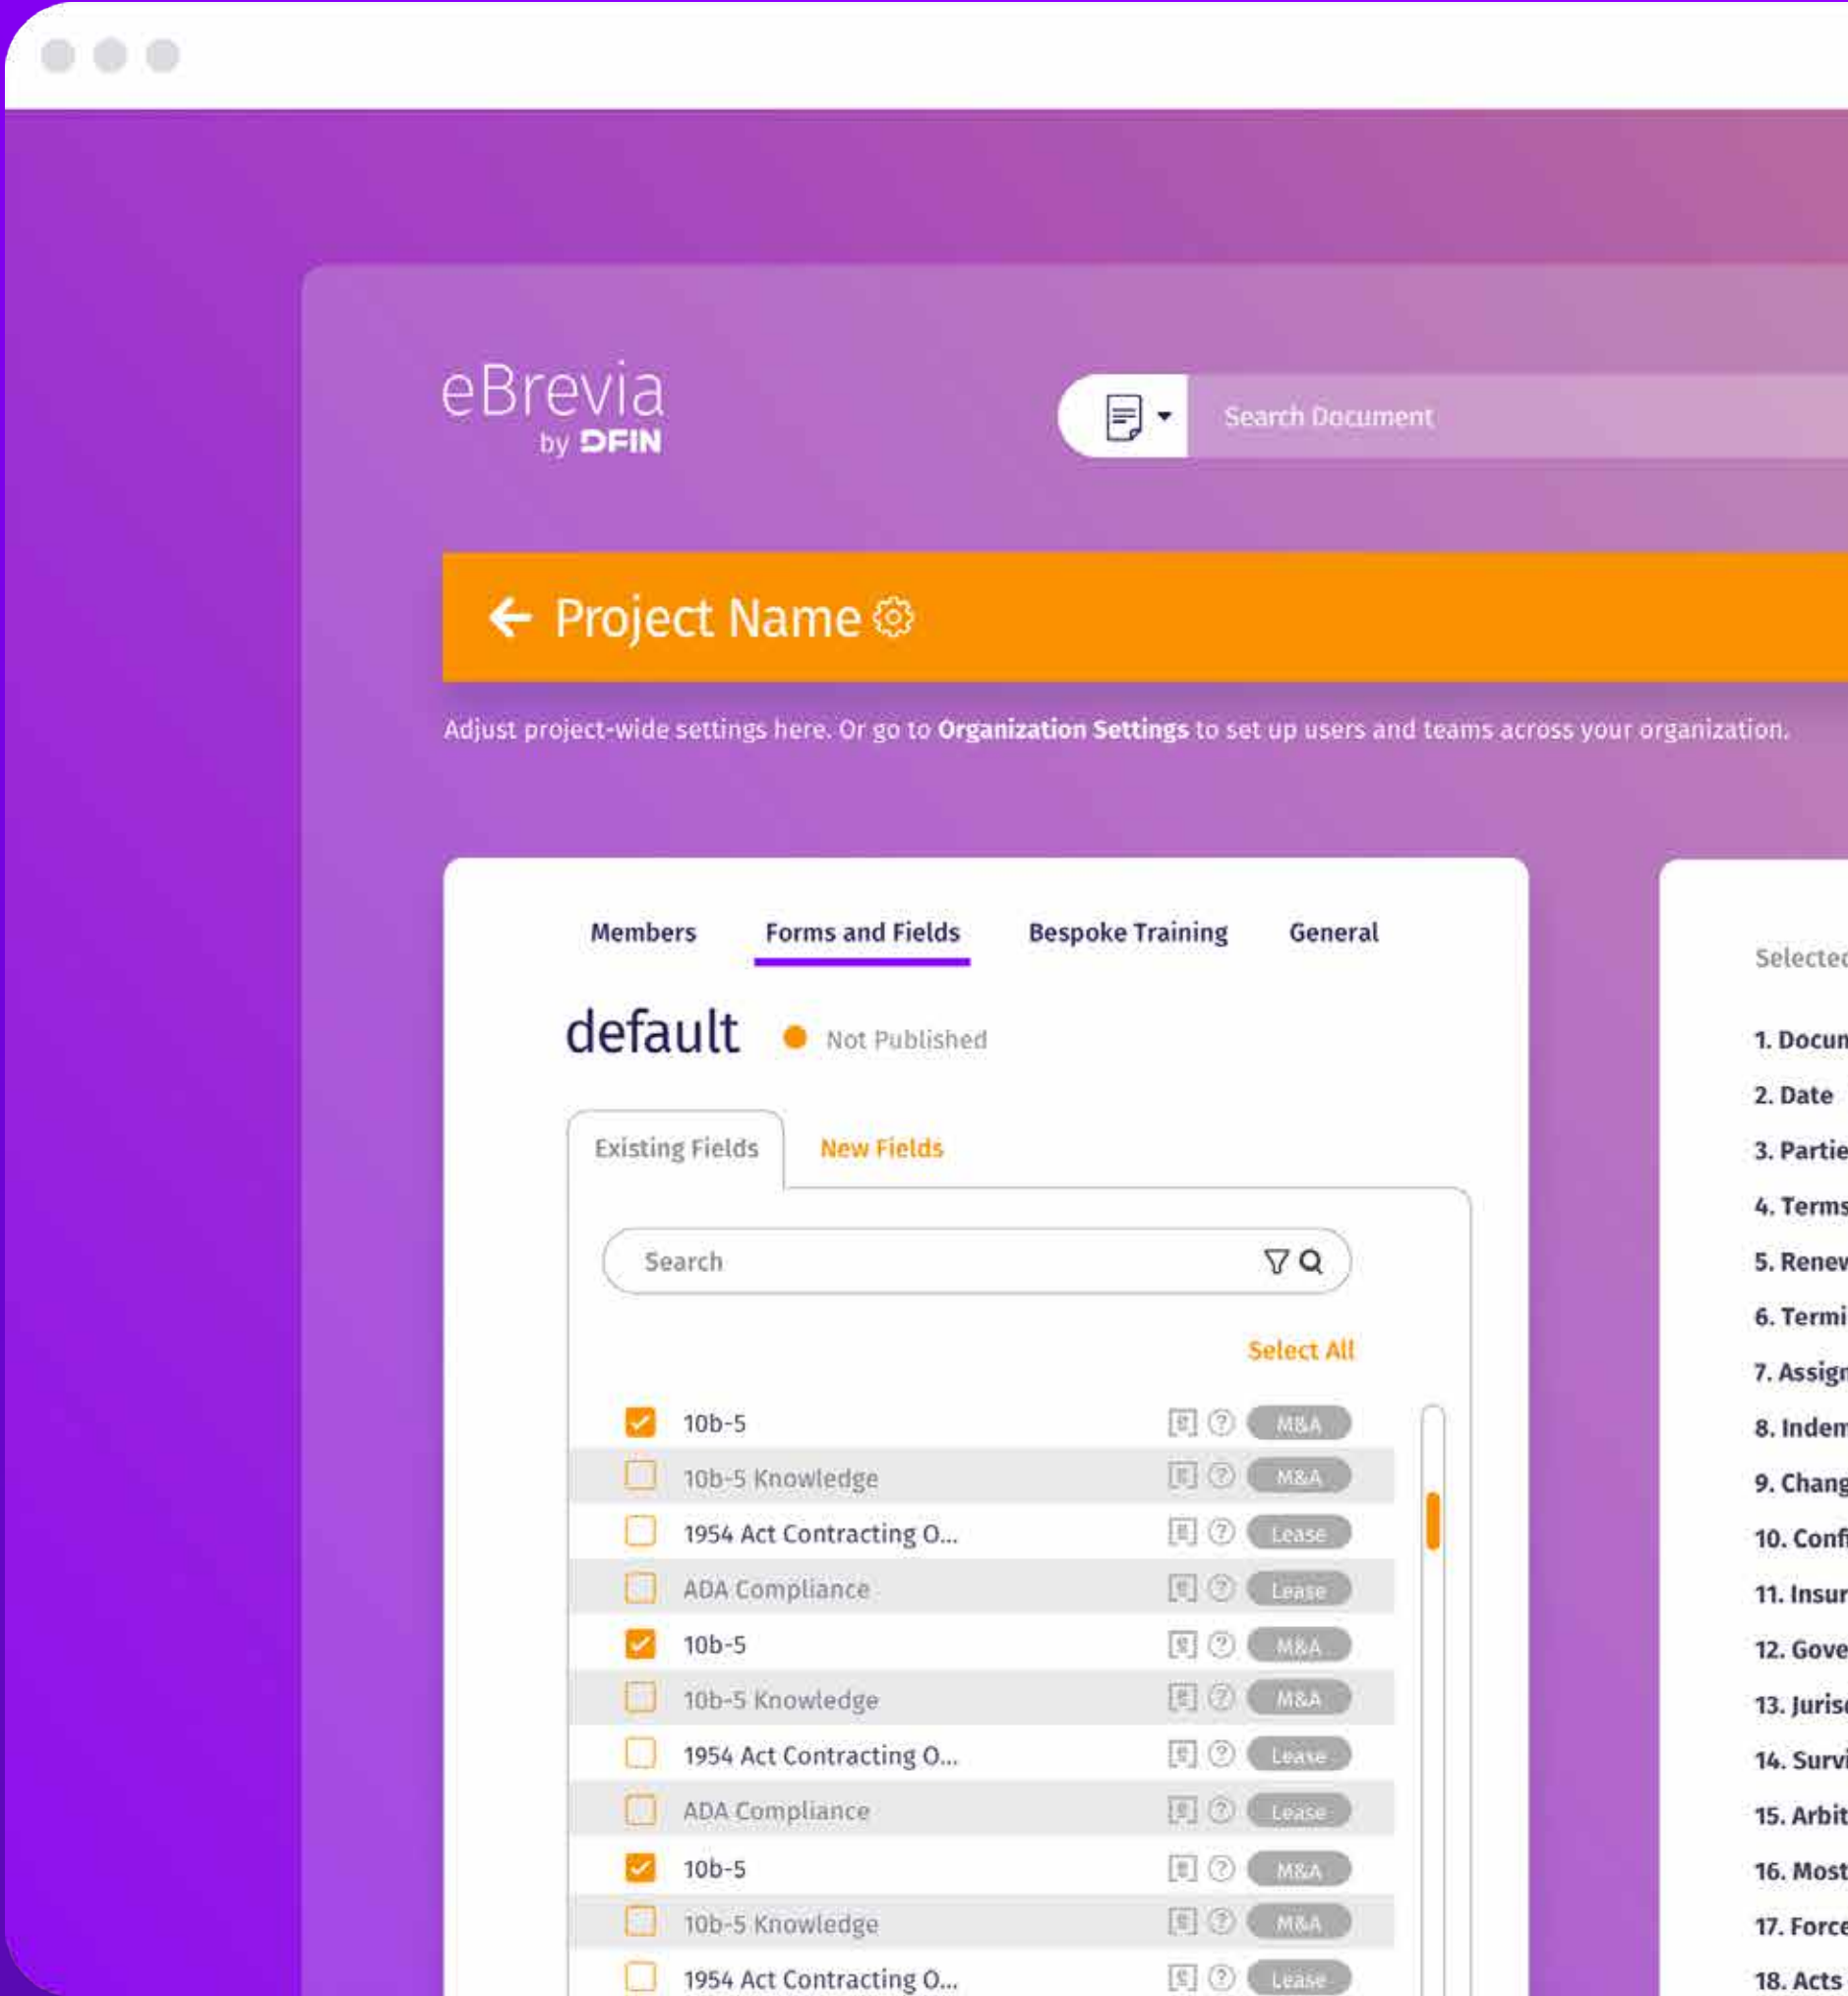

EFFICIENT

Thanks to the tool's automatic sorting features, the firm implemented an alphanumeric system that helps teams quickly and easily move documents into more targeted folders.

24/7/365 SUPPORT

Dedicated regional expert project managers made sure the firm had what it needed for efficient, effective post-merger and pre-divestiture migrations.

There is no tool on the market that can process thousands of documents [and] come back with one hundred percent accuracy, all clean, neat, and packaged. It was important to find the right balance between effectiveness and cost. Based on the firm's ROI, that goal has been exceeded with eBrevia.
