THE CHALLENGE

Improving their SEC filing processes

Shorter reporting deadlines and XBRL requirements made it difficult for Autoliv to prepare reports accurately and timely. Edits on 10-Qs and 10-Ks were sent via email and all new changes took time and increased the risk for errors significantly. Any late changes could jeopardize the SEC filing deadline. It was critical for Autoliv to find a tool that would reduce risk of errors and decrease the filing process time.

THE SOLUTION

The collaborative software that takes the complexities out of regulatory reporting

ActiveDisclosure software helped Autoliv mitigate the risk of inaccurate data filed with the SEC by allowing different users to update documents online simultaneously and by linking their excel tables into the online document. The version control and audit trail capabilities also played an important role in saving time and reducing the risk of errors and security breach attached to sending documents via email. Our 24/7/265 support permitted Autoliv to leverage the knowledge of DFIN experts when required.

“All the years we have been working with DFIN we have received the best support possible with our SEC filings. The DFIN team members assigned to us have all been dedicated experts and crucial for our successful filings with the SEC. Thanks to the AD, it is very easy to collaborate with internal and external contributors, as well as with the DFIN team to ensure effective and accurate SEC filings.”
